

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

CHAPTER VIII.

THE CHURCH.

LANCASTER CHURCH is a fine perpendicular structure of massive local stone, probably re-erected by the Nuns of Syon soon after the alien Priory of Lancaster was suppressed and its possessions transferred to the Monastery of Syon.

The Church consists of:—

1. Chancel with North and South Aisles.
  2. Nave with North and South Aisles.
  3. Western Tower.
  4. Porch on South side.
  5. Clergy and Choir Vestries
  6. Soldiers' Memorial Chapel
- } on North side.

The dimensions of the church are as follows:—

Length of nave and chancel 144 ft. 3 in., the nave and chancel being of almost equal length.

Width of nave and chancel 58 ft. 1 in., the width of the nave within the pillars being 23 ft. 11 in., the width of the north and south aisle being 14 ft., the diameter of the pillars being 3 ft. 1 in. on north and south.

Both nave and chancel are of a uniform height of 41 ft. 6 in. to the flat timber roof which covers both nave and chancel.

The earliest portion of the existing church is the transitional early English doorway which forms the south main entrance to the church. Remains of a similar door were discovered on the north side of the church, and a moulded base stone, which was found during the rebuilding of the vestry a few years ago, may be referred to the same period of a date about 1150.

The Decorated Period is represented by the western wall of the nave and aisles, including the south-west buttress, and by the recently discovered doorway to which the date of 1360 may be assigned.

The remainder of the nave, chancel, and aisles, are of the perpendicular period. The nave arches are of materially later date than those of the chancel.

The tower is of the eighteenth century, and the south porch, vestries, and soldiers' memorial chapel are modern.

At the eastern end of the church there is one large lofty window in the chancel of five lights, divided by a transom, and with perpendicular tracery in the head. On either side of this centre window is a smaller window of three lights, one at the eastern end of the north aisle, and a similar window at the east end of the south aisle. On the north side of the north aisle there were formerly eight windows, each of three lights, but at the present time, one window in the chancel is occupied by the organ chamber, and four windows on the north side of the aisle were removed in 1903-4 to the north side of the Soldiers' Memorial Chapel, which was erected in those years.

On the south side of the church are four similar windows in the south aisle of the chancel, and three similar windows in the south aisle of the nave, the remaining space on the south side being occupied by the twelfth century doorway, with a modern porch in front of it.

A modern window has been recently inserted in the west wall of the south aisle, where no window previously existed.

The chancel is separated from its aisles by an arcade of four pointed arches, to which the date of about 1430 may be assigned.

The nave is separated from its aisles by similar arcades of pointed arches, the westernmost arch on each side being much wider than the others. Above both nave and chancel are clerestory windows each of three lights, the whole of the windows in the church, except the east window, having similar tracery in the head.

The clergy and choir vestries were erected in the latter part of the nineteenth century, and the memorial chapel, erected on the north side of the north aisle of the nave, and which embodies the old windows taken out of the north aisle, was erected in 1903.

The south porch which covers the transitional Norman door on the south side, was originally erected in 1816, and was rebuilt in 1903.

The interior arrangement of the church has undergone considerable alteration from time to time. Prior to 1810, the communion rails crossed the chancel between the second pillars on the north and south sides of the chancel. Behind the communion rails was the consistory court, with the vestry at the east end of the north aisle, and a lumber room for ladders and scaffolding at the east end of the south aisle of the chancel. From this lumber room, the old sanctus bell, which hung over the east wall of the south aisle of the chancel, was rung. During the tenure of office, as churchwarden, of John Hargreaves, prior to 1847, considerable alterations were made at the east end of the church. The consistory court was abolished, and the Wills, which had been kept there, were removed to a room built over the then new vestry. Under the communion table had been interred the Rev. John Gibson and his wife, the father and mother of Charles Gibson who built Quernmore Park, the stone bearing their name marking the exact position where the old communion table stood.

At the same time the stalls were removed to the extreme east end of the church, all the stalls facing west.<sup>1</sup> The lower part of these stalls is of the time of Edward I., with misereres of inferior workmanship and grotesque carving. The canopies, however, of the stalls are of most intricate design and elaborate workmanship.

This removal of the stalls to the east end permitted the erection of a number of new pews in the chancel, and the small south door was removed from the third to the second bay from the east end.

Formerly, a long gallery extended from the second column

<sup>1</sup> The stalls in the north and south aisles were afterwards removed so as to face south and north, and extended as far as the first pillars on those sides.

on the south side of the chancel until it joined the gallery which crossed the west end of the church, and which returned along the north side until it reached the second pillar from the west end of the church on the north side of the nave. Access was obtained to these galleries by staircases on the south side of the chancel, in the south-west corner of the nave, and in the north-west corner of the nave.

Another gallery extended from the clustered column on the north side of the chancel two bays towards the east. Access to this gallery was obtained by a staircase on the north side of the chancel, which also provided access to the record room over the then new vestry.

The pulpit and reading desk stood on the north side of the nave against the first column to the west of the clustered column.

A more complete restoration was entered upon in 1864, when the canopy over the old pulpit with its crown and Bible, and the reading desk were cleared away, and the pulpit itself (dated 1619) was removed to the south side of the clustered column dividing the nave from the chancel.

The pews, which had consisted of four long lines of seats, one on each side of the centre aisle, and one on the north and south sides of the church, were cleared away, and modern oak benches facing north and south in the chancel and facing east in the nave, were substituted. The extraordinary erection which occupied the centre of the wider aisle of the nave, and which was known as "Noah's Ark," had been removed in 1825.

A gallery remained, and still remains, across the west end of the nave and south aisle until 1903, when the portion across the south aisle of the nave was removed.

A piscina was discovered in the south wall of the chapel at the east end of the south aisle of the chancel, and it is possible that sedilia still exist under the plaster adjoining it.

A portion of the old oak roof exists in the north aisle of the chancel and nave, and in the south aisle of the chancel.

Recently, the church authorities, desirous of ascertaining

whether there was an archway at the west end of the church, removed in 1898 the plaster from the wall behind the font, and found there an arched doorway of about the date of 1360. The belfry wall, built in 1759, is detached about eighteen inches from the west wall of the church. The doorway in the west wall is of the decorated period, and is in a good state of preservation. It has recently been opened out, so as to form a western exit from the church, through the base of the tower of 1759.<sup>1</sup>

The font stands at the west end of the nave, and has an elaborately carved cover, bearing date 1631, but a more ancient font has now been recovered from the vicarage garden, and placed in a recess at the west end of the church.

The porch which covers the transitional Norman door was originally erected in 1816, and was rebuilt in 1903 in memory of James Pearson Langshaw and his wife Emily by their daughter Fanny Austin.

The organ was built in 1728, in the gallery at the west end of the nave, and in 1811 was removed to Whalley Church. The organ which succeeded it was removed in 1872 from the west gallery to the north side of the chancel, where it still remains.

The tower at the west end was built in 1759. It apparently replaced a somewhat massive tower which had a staircase turret at its north-west angle; this was probably of later perpendicular work than the old western door, dating probably from about the year 1362. This western doorway shows considerable signs of having been exposed to the weather. The cill of the window in the ringers' room of the tower consists of a single stone bearing a cross. Traces have been discovered of the wall of a small building standing on the north side of the present tower, possibly remains of the ancient sanctuary.

The Iaylor kept an Inne, good beds, good cheere,
Where paying nothing, I found nothing deere;
For the under Shrieve, kind Master Couill nam'd
(A man for house-keeping renown'd and fam'd)
Did cause the Towne of Lancaster afford
Me welcome as if I had beene a Lord.
And 'tis reported that for daily bounty
His mate can scarce be found in all that county.
The extremes of mizer, or of prodigall,
He shuns, and liues discreet and liberall:
His wiue's minde and his own are one so fixt
That Argus' eyes could see no oddes betwixt,
And sure the difference (if there difference be)
Is who shall doe most good, or he or shee.

Poor folks report that for relieuing them
 He and his wife are each of them a Jem ;
 At th' Inne and at his house two nights I staide,
 And what was to be paid I know he paide ;
 If nothing of their kindnesse I had wrote,
 Ingratefull me the world might justly note :
 Had I declar'd all I did heare or see,
 For a great flatt'rer then I dee'd should be ;
 Him and his wife, and modest daughter Bess,
 With Earth and Heau'n's felicity, God blesse.

The brass to the memory of Thomas Covell still remains in the centre aisle of the chancel, but the upper portion has long been broken off. It represented Covell as wearing a wide ruff, tunic, breeches, and jack-boots, with, over all, a fur-edged cloak. He is represented as standing upon a pavement of tiles, and his hands are joined in prayer.

The epitaph, it has been suggested, was written by Richard Braithwaite, well known as the author of "Barnaby's Journal," "Two Lancashire Lovers," &c. The chief scene in Braithwaite's Story of "Two Lancashire Lovers" is laid "near to that antient towne of time honoured gaunt for her antiquity of site no lesse memorably recorded than for those eminent actions of her princely progenitors renowned."

In Part II. the following lines occur :—

First place where I first was knowne a
 Was brave John a Gaunt's old towne a
 A seat antiently renowned
 But with store of beggars drowned
 For a jaylor ripe & mellow
 The world has not such a fellow.

Calm resignation clasps a Saviour's cross,
And mourns, but does not murmur at the loss.
'Twas there her meek and lowly soul was taught
To seek the heavenly crown His blood had bought;
'Twas thence in mercy beamed the welcome ray
Which cheered with hope the aged pilgrim's way.
This mouldering dust shall here repose in peace,
Till that great day, when time itself shall cease;
Her spirit is with God, and this its plea—
"My Saviour lived, my Saviour died for me."

VICARS OF LANCASTER.

- 1431-2. Richard de Chester, Rec. Rep. 33, p. 33.
1558. Nov. 5. William Baynes—Star Paper, 1547-1580.
1566. John Waynehouse.
1575. Dec. 23. Hugh Conway—took his B.A. Deg. at Oxford 20 June, 1575, being then a Scholaris of twelve years' standing; he took his M.A. Deg. 6 July of the same year; presented by William Layborne and admitted 29 Dec. 1575.
1582. Henry Porter—Instituted Jan. 26, 1582, died 20 July, 1608, buried July 21 on south side of chancel.
1608. Geoffrey King—was Fellow of King's Coll., Cambridge, B.A. 1587, M.A. 1591. He was Regius Prof. of Hebrew in Camb. 1607, Vicar of Horsham in 1605, Vicar of Lancaster 1608, Rector of Aldingham 1623, Chaplain to Archbishop Bancroft and to James I.
1616. James Gregson—Instituted Oct. 9, 1616?
1630. Nov. 7. Augustine Wildbore<sup>1</sup>—Presented by Thomas ffarington. The presentation was disputed, and in 1641 Tobias Knipe, Arthur Gardiner, and Richard Routh, presented a petition which declared that Knipe and Gardiner being seized in fee of the Vicarage of Lancaster upon the death of the late Incumbent, presented Routh, but the Bishop of Chester, in order to obtain the living for his kinsman Augustine Wildbore, refused to institute Routh, and shortly after upon a pretended presentation by Thomas ffarington (from whom petitioners had purchased the advowson) inducted Wildbore. Petitioners having taken steps to establish their rights in law, Wildbore resigned, and the Bishop then obtained the presentation for himself from the King on the ground of lapse and simony and again instituted Wildbore.

Petitioners asked that the Bishop and Wildbore might be called upon to answer. Eventually, Charles I. confirmed the living to Augustine Wildbore, and Bishop Gastrell stated that "in 1631 the King presented; and the same Vicar was presented by Thomas Farington, gent., as true patron." Notitia Cestriensis, vol ii., p. 433.

In 1632-4 a report upon the four Lancashire Lectures records that the Vicarage of Garstang was held by Dr. Wildbore who received therefrom £120 a year, and £240 from his Vicarage of Lancaster, and he was said "to reside little nor keep hospitalitie upon neither, a great and rich man and maie well ease this charge by preaching att this charge, or paie the lecturer's stipend." State Papers, Dom. Ser. cclx. 467.

Dr. Wildbore appears to have remained in possession of the Vicarage until 1643, when, on account of the assistance he is alleged to have given to the Royalist forces, he was declared a delinquent, and deprived of his Vicarage under the following order of the House of Commons:—<sup>1</sup>

"An order for sequestering the rents and profits of the Vicarage of Lancaster whereof Dr. Augustine Wildbore was late Vicar to the use of Mr. Nehemiah Barnett, a godly, learned and orthodox divine, who is hereby appointed and required to preach every Lord's Day there; and take care for discharge of the cure of that place in all duties thereof until further order shall be taken by this house; was this day read and by vote upon the question assented to."

On 12 August, 1646, a caveat was lodged in the Assembly of Divines by Sir Henry Vane against Dr. Wildbore, founded upon the complaints against him by various Lancashire Divines, and on 7 Sept., 1646, it was resolved that "he have no approbation and that a return be made to the Commissioners of the Great Seal." On the 25 December, following, the Committee ordered on the petition of Dr. Wildbore's children, that they should have towards their maintenance "the full cleere 5th pte of . . . . the value of the two benefices (Garstang and Lancaster) all taxes and charges first deducted out of the whole, unless good cause in writing be shown to the contrary. The said Dr. Wildbore and his children yielding all due obedience to the said sequestration."

Dr. Wildbore in 1638 rebuilt the Vicarage and placed his initials A. W. and the date 1638 over the door. The new vicarage was a long, low building with five windows, each of three lights, on the ground floor, and five similar windows above. It stood nearer the road than the present building, and was pulled down when the present vicarage was built in 1848-9. Dr. Wildbore died at Duffield, near Derby, in April, 1654.

1643. Nehemiah Barnett—a Presbyterian, was Minister here at the time the Castle was besieged by Royalists under the Earl of Derby, when he encouraged the defenders to hold out, and is said to have "doubled the spirit of the heartie though heedlesse souldiers to maintain with utmost hazzard so great a trust."

He preached a sermon entitled: "God's lift up hand for Lancashire, presented in a sermon, preached before the Hon. Committee of the County of Lancaster upon the 18th Dec., 1645, being a solemne day of thanksgiving to God for clearing of the County and in subduing the enemies thereof." The sermon was dedicated "to the Worshipful Mr. Mayor, the Baylifs, and Burgesses of Lancaster. N. B. desireth their sanctification on earth and glorification in Heaven."

In Oct., 1646, when the county was divided into Presbyterial Classis, Mr. Barnett's name appears at the head of the eighth classis. Mr. Barnett died 26 October, 1647.

1650. William Marshall—is described in the Commonwealth Church Survey of 1650, as “ye Vicar for ye time being att Lancaster is Mr. William Marshall, Master of Arts, a godly and painfull minister of Jesus Christ.” George Fox, the founder of the Society of Friends, who was brought before the Justices at Lancaster in 1652, states that his accusers “had chosen one Marshall a priest of Lancaster to be their orator; and had provided one young priest and two priest’s sons to bear witness against me, who had sworn beforehand that I had spoken blasphemy. When the Judges were sat they heard all that the priests and their witnesses could say and charge against me; their orator Marshall sitting by and explaining their sayings for them; but the witnesses were so confounded that they discovered themselves to be false witnesses . . . . . I was moved of the Lord to speak and as soon as I began priest Marshall the orator for the rest of the priests went his way.” Fox also records that he entered “the Steeple house and declared the truth both to the priest and people; laying before them the deceits they lived in, and directing them to the power and spirit of God which they wanted. But they haled me out and stoned me along the street till I came to John Lawson’s house.” At the Restoration Mr. Marshall failed to comply with the conditions of the Act of Uniformity and was ejected. He subsequently practised in London as a physician, and attained a position of some eminence.
1660. Hugh Barrow—was appointed by the King. He married and had issue, a daughter Rachael, who in 1668 became the wife of William Patten of Warrington, Merchant. Mr. Barrow was buried on the 2nd of October, 1672, and his will was proved at Richmond in the same year.
1672. Edmund Garforth—presented by George Toulson and instituted Dec. 10, 1672. William Stout in his autobiography, states that Garforth was an austere man and severe for his pretended dues, and prosecuted them who did not pay, especially the Quakers, to imprisonment to London. Mr. Garforth was buried on the 8th January, 1681-2.

1682. Seth Bushell, D.D.—presented by George Toulson, was instituted June 19, 1682. William Stout speaks of him as Vicar of Lancaster this hot persecution time, and was a person of a moderate disposition, and much discouraged persecution for religion or prosecution of any of his parish for what was customary due, and very courteous to dissenters of all denominations, so that none of his parishioners were troubled by him.

He matriculated at Oxford as the son of Adam Bushell of Cuerdon, aged 14 years, took his B.A. and M.A. degrees together, 23 Feb. 1654-5; that of B.D. June 10, 1665; D.D. June 27, 1672. Held the livings of Whitley, co. York, and Euxton, co. Lancaster, Vicar of Preston, 1663, and of Lancaster, 1682, till his death, Nov. 6, 1684, aged 63. He published sermons and a volume entitled: "Cosmo Meros, The Worldly Portion." Dict. of Nat. Biog., vol. 8, p. 35.

1684. James Fenton—was presented by George Toulson. James Fenton matriculated at Oxford from Queen's College, May 23, 1672, aged 18, son of John Fenton of Garthes, co. Westmoreland. He took his B.A. degree Jan. 27, 1675; M.A. Feb. 23, 1696; B.D. and D.D. March 3, 1696. He held the living till his death in February, 1713-14.

1714. James Fenton—presented by Robert Gibson of Lancaster, Esq., the patron for that turn. James Fenton matriculated at Oxford March 13, 1704-5, son of James Fenton of Lancaster, Clerk, aged 17. He took his B.A. degree in 1708, and the degrees of B.C.L. and D.C.L. in 1721. James Fenton was Rector of Heysham from 1738 to 1756, and held the living of Lancaster for over forty years, his death occurring in January, 1767.

On the 29th May, 1714, George Toulson and Elizabeth Toulson appear to have presented William Lindsley to the vicarage of Lancaster. On the 29th Oct., 1714, an enquiry was directed to be made before the Rectors of Bentham, Whittington, Heysham, Halton and Claughton; the Vicars of Kendal, Tunstall, Garstang, Melling, Thornton, Clapham, Bolton-le-Sands and Burton in Kendal, with thirteen others, who found Robert Gibson, Esq., to be the true patron.

Mr. Fenton was Vicar of Lancaster at the time of its invasion by the Jacobite forces under Mr. Forster and Lord Derwentwater, on the 8th Nov., 1715.

"At ten o'clock this morning by the order of Mr. Paul, a Minister of the Church of England who had joyned with the Earl of Derwentwater, a little bell at the east end of Lancaster Church was ringd to warne people to come to prayers, and while the said bell was a ringing Mr. Paul took the Common Prayer Book, and in the prayer for the Queen Mr. Paul razed out the name of Queen Ann and writ King James and in the prayer of the Royal Family he razed out the name of the Princess Sophia and writ the King's Mother. Abundance of persons went this day to this Church, and the said Mr. Paul read the usuall prayers, only instead of praying for King George prayed for his new Master by the name of King James, and instead of George Prince of Wales he prayed thus: To bless the King's Mother and all the Royal Family."<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Mr. Patten as Chaplain of the Jacobite force has thus explained the matter:—"There was one Mr. Gwyn who went into the Churches in their way, and scratched ont His Majesty King George's name and placed the Pretender's so nicely, that it resembled print very much, and the alteration could scarce be perceived."

"The Vicar of Lancaster was asked to preach, but it seems that he was not so averse to it any more than some of his brethren, but he wanted to see how the scales would turn before he would think of venturing so far.

This afternoon the gentlemen soldiers dressed and trimmed themselves up in their best cloathes, for to drink a dish of tea with the laydys of this towne. The laydys also here appeared in their best riging and had their tea tables richly furnished for to entertain their new suitors.

This evening a discourse about religion hapned between the Minister of this towne and two Romish priests."

When the Jacobites came again in 1745, one of their officers entered the church, and finding the organ open he entertained his companions with the Air, "The King shall have his own again." The Vicar was still careful not to commit himself to the Jacobite cause.

1767. Oliver Marton—was presented by Sir Thomas Hesketh of Rufford, London, the patron, and was instituted June 8, 1767. Oliver Marton was a younger son of Oliver Marton of Capernwray; he succeeded on the death of his brother to the Capernwray estates, and married Priscilla Anne, daughter of Admiral Edwards. Their son George Richard Marton was the grandfather of the late owner of Capernwray, George Blucher Heneage Marton. Oliver Marton was of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, 1743, and Rector of Bentham in 1755, and was buried on August 9, 1794.
1794. William White—was presented on the death of Oliver Marton by John Fenton Cawthorne, Anthony Atkinson, and Thomas Green, trustees of the late Oliver Marton, and patrons of the advowson. William White was of Clare Hall, Cambridge, B.A. in 1793, M.A. 1796, and died a prisoner at Verdun, June 14, 1806.

1806. John Manby—was presented by the King on the death of the last Incumbent. The right of presentation fell to the Crown by reason of the lunacy of Oliver Marton the true patron. John Manby matriculated at Oxford Oct. 29, 1782, from Merton College. He took his B.A. degree in 1787, and that of M.A. in 1789.

Of John Manby the late Thomas Hathornthwaite wrote as follows :—

“Enter the Church, the service is begun,
What silvery tones come floating on my ear!
How finely solemn rings that tuneful voice!
Now sweet, subdued, lulled to the gentlest fall,
Like whispers trickling from a Seraph's tongue,
Still, clear, imimitably soft,
Now swelling louder, firmer, mightier, till
In one impetuous gush of harmony,
Floods of rich sound wake music all around.
Whence comes it? I will look; that fine old man
With brilliant eye; quick glancing, keen and shrewd,
Hardly sedate or tranquil, piercing,—now
Composed a little,—flashing then on all
Unsteady restless gazes, feverish light:
Thin silvery hair, as with a circlet, crowns
His hoary head, else bald, his lips compressed
Smooth, delicate in outline, firm yet calm,
Oft wreathing with involuntary smiles,
Which with a natural fitfulness would stream
Over his sun-lit features; you would think
He looked upon you with a cheering glance
Of radiant recognition, as 'tween friends.
Oh! Manby! while the Church of Lancaster
Dwells in my memory, thou shall ever be Still Vicar there :—the voice, the form, the man
Have stamped their image on the Parish Church.”

1844. Joseph Turner—was presented by George Marton and instituted April 26, 1844. He was of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, and took his B.A. degree in 1824, and M.A. 1827. He became Curate at Lancaster in 1824, Vicar in 1844, and died in 1871.

1871. John Allen—was presented by George Blucher Heneage

Marton. He was of Exeter College, Oxford, from which he graduated B.A. in 1858, M.A. in 1861, B.D. and D.D. in 1876. John Allen retired in 1898.

1898. William Bonsey—the present Vicar.
